REMARKS.

The schools have been located the past year in six of the seven divisions into which the territory of the town has been heretofore classed for school purposes, to wit:— divisions 1, 3, 4, 5, 6 and 7 respectively, the few scholars in division 2 being as well accommodated as far as travel was concerned by attending school in division 3 as they would be in division 2; and this arrangement also supplied several scholars with the means of attendance in the former division from the old district No. 11, otherwise unprovided for.

We have been peculiarly fortunate in the selection of experienced and faithful teachers who have been alive to their responsibilities and have done credit to themselves and their respective schools. To the young teacher we have also a word of encouragement to offer. Whatever may have been your shortcomings and failures in your first attempt, try and remedy them in the future by thoroughly qualifying yourself for your station. If you learn to know a good deal more than you are required to teach, what you are required to do will be done much more easily and gracefully and be more productive of good results. Old and experienced teachers will endorse these latter remarks.

For reasons given in former reports an appropriation of $100 will be needed to keep up the average yearly length of the schools to twenty weeks. We have no doubt of the favorable action of the town on this important matter. No further sum is needed for repairs this year as enough remains of last years appropriation to meet the demands for the ensuing year.

In 1876 the amount raised by taxation was $874 57. The literary fund and dog tax were $123 86. The whole amount of school money $1008 43. The number of scholars registered was 215. Division 4 then had two scholars in summer and seven in the winter term. In division 7 there were 24 scholars in the summer term and 26 in winter. In No. 1, 9 in the summer and 22 in the winter. No. 5 had then 20 in each term. The reader can compare these figures with those in the present report for the same divisions or districts and note the changes that have taken place during the last fifteen years. These changes would be still more marked and significant by going back to still earlier dates. The literary fund as now distributed among the towns, cities and precincts according to the number of scholars, throws a larger proportion of the whole sum into the populous places, leaving only a small share for the sparsely populated towns where the school children are obliged to go long distances to school, two terms of eight weeks being generally the yearly allowance of schooling. The question is often asked "What is the cause of the abandonment of so many New Hampshire farms"? The law-makers of our state could answer this question in part, we believe by replying that some of the people have left their farms to go where all the school money goes, into the large towns and cities where their children get better educational facilities. These same law-makers could remedy this evil in part by giving the country towns a larger proportion of this fund as one of the means of checking the tide of this much dreaded abandonment.

An excellent teacher was employed by the trustees of the high school fund for a term of school in the fall at the Center, free to all scholars in the town. That no scholars attended outside of division 1 was not the fault of the trustees nor of the teacher whose excellent qualifications and reputation as an instructor were a sufficient attraction to draw scholars from the other divisions had there been any sufficiently advanced.

For the benefit of the community within our limits we hope the town will give a favorable consideration to the liberal offer of the state in relation to the formation of town libraries.

In the financial report attention is called to the fact that in the amount paid to the respective teachers are included other incidental expenses, transportation, cleaning school-houses &c.

Our relations and associations with parents, teachers and scholars have been uniformly pleasant, and for the many acts of courtesy and assistance we return our sincere thanks.

All which is respectfully submitted.
